The California Environmental Justice Alliance (CEJA) Presents:

A Green Zones Webinar and Press Briefing
Ericka Flores

Center for Community Action and Environmental Justice (CCAEJ)

Tiffany Eng

California Environmental Justice Alliance (CEJA)
California Environmental Justice Alliance (CEJA)

CEJA is a statewide, community-led alliance that works to achieve environmental justice by advancing policy solutions.
Green Zones, Defined

Green Zones are place-based strategies that use community-led solutions to transform areas overburdened by pollution into healthy and thriving neighborhoods.

Green Zones focus on:

- Community-led planning
- Policies that reduce pollution
- Large scale funding and investments
Identifying EJ Communities: Measuring Cumulative Impacts (CES 3.0)
2018 Report: Green Zones Across California

Highlights from the updated 2018 report include:

- Recent Green Zones models and campaign wins
- Green Zones legislative victories, including SB 1000 and AB 2722
- An interview with two of the Green Zones Initiative’s co-founders
- Updates and new community profiles from across the state
New: California Green Zones Website

CalGreenZones.org
Carolina Martinez
Policy Director
Environmental Health Coalition (EHC)

carolinam@environmentalhealth.org
Chelsea Tu
Senior Attorney
Center on Race, Poverty & the Environment (CRPE)

ctu@crpe-ej.org
Ashley Werner
Senior Attorney
Leadership Counsel for Justice and Accountability

awerner@leadershipcounsel.org
Green Zones Webinar Q&A

Submit comments through GoToWebinar’s chat box feature.

Questions and comments can also be emailed to tiffany@caleja.org. Speakers will respond after the webinar.
Thank You

Additional questions and comments can be sent to: tiffany@caleja.org.